

DEPARTMENT OF LANGUAGE, LINGUISTICS AND PHILOSOPHY

Dr Lawrence Ojo Bamikole, BA., MA., PhD, O.A.U, Ile-Ife.
Head of Department

WORK OF THE DEPARTMENT

The Department engaged in multiple activities during the period under review. In the area of research, the Department received an award from the Office of Graduate Studies and Research for “Outstanding Performance in the Development of Research Students”. This award was presented to the Head of Department at a ceremony on Thursday May 4, 2017. Two research students; Ms Kadian Walters and Mr Andre Bernard also received awards at the function. During the academic year, three research students in the Linguistics Section; Trecel Messam-Johnson, Nickesha Dawkins and Daidrah Smith successfully defended their PhD theses.

A Postgraduate Retreat was convened on Friday, February 17, 2017 to discuss the research programmes on offer. The Philosophy and Linguistics Sections submitted proposals to revise their programmes but some of the proposed amendments were not approved, pending the submission of additional information. The Philosophy Section would be developing a Post Graduate Diploma in Philosophy. In an effort to showcase the research conducted by post graduate students, the Department hosted its Postgraduate Research Day on May 25, 2017.

The Department participated in the annual University Research Days, held on February 1–3, 2017 as follows: Ms Burnadette McPherson submitted a Poster presentation “Chat Bad, Chat Good: The Perception of Location in Jamaican Speech Communities”. Mr Andre Bernard’s paper on “Contextualizing Jamaican Twitter Discourse” and Dr Kadian Walters’ paper on “I got what I wanted but how did they make me feel? The Anatomy of Linguistic Discrimination in a Diglossic Situation” were published in the Research for Development 2017 Publication.

Two staff-student liaison meetings were hosted by the Department on March 2 and 30, 2017 which allowed students to express their views and concerns about the delivery of their respective courses. Dr Michele Kennedy, Mrs Ama Ababio and Dr Sandra McCalla coordinated a stress management workshop on Thursday March 16, 2017 under the theme, “The Silent GPA Killer: Stress”. The event was hosted by the LOUD and PHILSOC clubs which are attached to the Department.

The Department met with various high school students during the period under review including Maggotty High school on Tuesday, March 28, 2017 and participants in the MM Jamaica Mathematics Competition on Thursday, May 4, 2017. The Linguistics Section hosted ‘Linguistics Day’ with Ascot High School students on March 21, 2017. Under the leadership of Dr. Michele Kennedy, CAPE Communication students were facilitated in several lectures and LOUD members gave students a campus tour including a visit to the UWI museum.

The Department was selected to participate in the University Council of Jamaica (UCJ) Mid-Cycle Evaluation visit on April 3 and 4, 2017. Three members of the Department – Drs Kennedy, Milson-Whyte and McCalla participated in an interview with members of the team while Dr Bamikole joined other Heads of Department to make presentations to this group.

A delegation led by the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Lagos (UNILAG), visited the Department as part of the event that marked the signing of an MOU to establish an Institute of African and Diaspora Studies between UNILAG and the UWI on Tuesday, May 16, 2017. At the occasion, Drs Bamikole and Milson-Whyte made presentations about the structure and activities of the Department.

Within the English Language Section, Dr Ingrid McLaren – Associate Dean for Outreach in the Faculty was promoted to Senior Lecturer in May 2017. Additionally, seven Instructors within the Section received permanent contracts. The Section continued to promote the relatively new Minor in English Language Writing and Speech.

During the Society for Caribbean Linguistics Conference held at The UWI, Mona from 3–5 August 2016, Drs Caroline Dyche and Claudette Coote-Thompson participated in the “soft” launch of the “Caribbean Association for Tertiary-Level Practitioners of Academic Literacies” (CATALP), which Dr Dyche co-chairs. Dr Coote-Thompson attended the ICT in Education Conference 2016 at Moon Palace in Ocho Rios on October 27, 2016.

Mr Annife Campbell, Dr Vivette Milson-Whyte and Ms Sandra Minott attended the Writing Research Across Borders (WRAB) Conference held at Pontificia Universidad Javeriana, Bogotá in Colombia from February 15–19. Mrs Ornette Blair, Dr Vivette Milson-Whyte, Ms Dianne Madden and Mrs Margaret Newman attended the 68th Annual Convention of the Conference on College Composition and Communication (CCCC) from March 15–18 in Portland, Oregon. Dr Caroline Dyche presented two-hour Newstalk Radio ‘Public Speaking workshops’ on February 19 and 26 in support of the English Olympiad initiative in high schools in Jamaica.

Drs Ingrid McLaren and Caroline Dyche represented the Language Section at a Cross-Campus Meeting held in Barbados from April 24–26, 2017. At this meeting, a decision was taken to change the name of the Foundation Language Programme and to develop a programme in Academic Writing/Literacies. Mrs Margaret Newman successfully completed a Certificate in English Language Teaching to Adults (CELTA) course, with emphasis in Teaching English as a Second Language. Dr Dyche participated in the Dream Jamaica workshop for high school students held at The UWI, Mona between July 2 and 25, 2017.

Dr Milson-Whyte's book Academic Writing Instruction for Creole-Influenced Students (UWI Press, 2015) was named as a finalist in the Education/Academic (Non-fiction) category of the 2017 Next Generation Indie Book Awards (NGIBA). For this award, she received a certificate and a silver medal. The book was among UWI Press's award-winning books, presented to the Minister of Education, Senator Ruel Reid in May 2017.

Within the Linguistics Section, Dr Kadian Walters along with the LING 3399 – Language Planning class coordinated and delivered the second staging of the Applied Linguistics Symposium under the theme “Linguistics Discrimination in Jamaica's Public Sector” on March 21, 2017. A Linguistics undergraduate conference, hosted by the LOUD Linguistics Club was held on April 14, 2017 under the theme “All Languages Matter”. The Linguistics Section participated in a Cross Campus Meeting on April 18–19, 2017 at the St Augustine Campus with counterparts across the three UWI campuses.

Dr Michele Kennedy and Dr Monica Taylor edited a Special Issue of the Caribbean Journal of Education in 2016 themed ‘Language, Linguistics and Philosophy in Research’ (Vol 38, 2).

Professor Silvia Kouwenberg continued to serve as Deputy Dean in charge of Undergraduate matters and Quality Assurance for the Faculty of Humanities and Education.

The Linguistics of UWIMONA on Display (LOUD) club's outreach program was launched in September 2016. Read ALOUD is a reading program for students in Grades 1–6 and is held every Thursday at 3:30 pm at the Hope Outreach Centre in August Town. Visiting Professor, Susanne Mühleisen of University of Bayreuth, Germany, held a public lecture on February 23, 2017 entitled “Gud Nyuuz fi Patwa? Bible translation in colonial and postcolonial contexts”.

The on-going project 'Professional Development of Primary School Teachers' (PDPST), jointly undertaken by Dr Michèle Kennedy, Professor Silvia Kouwenberg, and Dr Yewande Lewis-Fokum, empowers primary school teachers with the background knowledge and abilities to make their approaches to the teaching of English language and literacy appropriate to a predominantly Creole-speaking classroom, and thus obtain improved learning outcomes across the primary school curriculum.

The project represents a significant effort to reach out to the following stakeholders: primary school teachers, especially those teaching grades 1–4, Teachers' Colleges, especially with Primary Language Arts Curriculum and graduates of UWI programmes who have completed a combination of Linguistics and English Education courses at the undergraduate level, and who are currently in the school system as educators. A postgraduate course, LING6109 (Linguistics in Language Arts Education) was designed for the graduates which will provide the basis for their certification as PDPST trainers. The lecturers participated in the B.Ed. Curriculum Programme Review for Teachers' Colleges of Jamaica from May 29–31, 2017 and the suggestions for significant changes to the course 'Teaching Language Arts in the Primary School 1' were accepted by the Language Arts review team.

The Philosophy Section, in collaboration with the Indian High Commission held its annual Gandhi Day Celebrations on October 2, 2016 at the Faculty of Humanities and Education. The annual UWI/ UNESCO World Philosophy Day held on November 17, 2016 under the theme "Ethics as a Guide to Right Action: The Case of Doping", was deemed to be very successful by those who attended. A panel discussion was held with Dr Rachel Irvin, Mr Compton Rodney, Dr Sopie Turfus and Dr Sandra McCalla as panellists.

Professor Rakesh Mishra, the first Chair of Indology and Gandhian Studies attached to the Philosophy Section successfully completed his two-year tenure on July 31, 2017. Professor Mishra gave a lecture at the Department's Post Graduate Research Day 2017 on the topic "The Europeans and the Beginning of Indology". Professor Mishra also taught courses in Indian Philosophy during his tenure.

The Writing Centre offered twenty one (21) hours of individual coaching per week along with writing workshops to students on the Mona campus. In Semester II alone, over 100 students had registered for coaching, a record for the Centre. As a collaborated effort with the Main Library, three workshops were offered to students where they could consult with representatives from the Main Library. The Department is working on a long run proposal for approval by the UWI, which will transform the Writing Centre into a sustainable Centre that will provide services for both students and staff in their writing and research activities.

The IELTS Centre continued to carry out its key mandate of delivering tests at the Mona and Western Jamaica Campuses and during the period under review, there was an increase in the number of test takers. The search for a suitable building for IELTS continued and both the Principal and the Dean were made aware of this matter. The administrative staff at the Centre attended administrative training/updates in Costa Rica from May 22–28, 2017.

The Jamaican Language Unit (JLU) implemented the plans for the 21st Biennial Conference of the Society for Caribbean Linguistics from 2nd–5th August, 2016. From August, 2016 to present, the Unit continued the operations of Braadkyaas Jamiikan on Newstalk 93Fm, via twice daily newscasts in the Jamaican Language. The programming was uploaded daily on a free app available for Android and Apple users. Also, the Unit began broadcasting on Youtube the interview programme in the Jamaican Language, hosted by Carolyn Cooper, ‘Big Tingz a Gwaan’.

The Unit conducted a review of the Jamaican Language for Foreigners’ programme run by the Embassy of the USA for its volunteers in Jamaica, recommending improvements between August and December, 2017. From September, 2016 to the present, the Unit designed an intervention with Moneague College to prepare Early Childhood teachers for delivering bilingually, in English and Jamaican, as required by the Ministry of Education National Curriculum Guides. There was also work with the Open Campus on a Jamaican as a Foreign Language Course to be delivered in September, 2017.

The JLU oversaw between August and November 2016, the final stages of the introduction of the new, 37 Credit M.A. in the English Language and eventually its implementation in January, 2017. The Unit continued, funded by ICCLR, to document the oral traditions of Jamaican Maroons, via transcribing and translating where necessary, an archive of oral material, some of it provided by Nana Farika. The JLU provided support for the Writing Across the Curriculum group, and its activities associated with the publication of the Quality Education Forum journal, as an international peer reviewed journal. The Unit collaborated with the University of Cincinnati in the form of the ongoing Jamaican Child Language Acquisition project run by Dr. Karla Washington and her colleagues. Mr. Javier Vanegas, PhD student from Universidad Tecnológica de Pereira, Colombia interned at the JLU from June 15 to July 15.
